

The datagidx package was developed to follow the word order indexing style described by the Oxford Style Manual. Many of the examples here are taken from that manual. Two L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X runs are required. If you get a pdfTeX warning that a destination has been referenced but does not exist, this may mean the index is out-of-date and you need to do another L<sup>A</sup>T<sub>E</sub>X run.

With word ordering a word break (space or hyphen) comes before all other letters of the alphabet (sea lion comes before seal). With letter ordering word breaks are ignored (so seal comes before sea lion).

Use a few terms here: index, group, singular, plural.

We don't need to use `makeindex` or `xindy`! However,  $\text{\TeX}$  takes longer to sort and collate than either `makeindex` or `xindy`, so document compilation time will take longer.
